Bulky household waste collection service relaunched

WEST Lancashire Borough Council is relaunching its bulky household waste collection service on Tuesday, November 6 to help residents dispose of their waste responsibly.

It had to be temporarily suspended following the third party provider used by the authority no longer being able to provide this valuable collection service to the community.

The council has been looking at alternative ways in which the service can be delivered and the collection service will now be carried out by the authority's Street Scene Service.

Residents will be able to book collections from this week (starting Monday October 29) online or by contacting customer services and collections will start the following week.

Collections will take place on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, depending on the area people live in.

For more details about the service and to book a collection, go to the website at www.westlancs.gov.uk/refuse and click on the link for collections of bulky household items.

MP SLAMS DECISION TO AXE EMPLOYMENT TRANSIT SCHEME

Report by Henry James

ROSIE Cooper has slammed a decision to axe the Skelmersdale Employment Transit scheme.

The taxi scheme, funded by developer contributions secured through planning permissions for development on Pimbo Industrial Estate, provided transport for many Skelmersdale residents in areas where inadequate or unavailable public transport is a real barrier for people wishing to work.

Now Lancashire County Council have announced they will no longer be administering the scheme as West Lancashire Borough Council informed them they are no longer in a position to fund it.

West Lancs MP Ms Cooper said: "This taxi scheme has been a lifeline to hundreds of workers for many years who otherwise had no means of transport available to them to get to work.

"Many travel for shift work early in the morning or late at night, or use the scheme for standard working hours where public transport doesn't service.

Rosie Cooper - 'scheme has been a lifeline for hundreds of workers'

"Residents and businesses are contacting me to express their frustration and fears about the impact this will have on their lives and their businesses. Some workers could end up unemployed if they can't find alternative means.

"I have written to both West Lancashire Borough Council and Lancashire County Council to get an update on the situation and see what can be done to support those workers affected."

Council says project was only ever meant to be a temporary measure and efforts to secure further funding support have failed

A spokesman for the borough council responded: "The Skelmersdale Demand Responsive Transport Scheme, a subsidised taxi service for individuals who had recently come back into employment after securing jobs at businesses on Pimbo Employment Area, has been running for six years. It has been funded by developer contributions secured from new developments in Pimbo Employment Area.

Unsuccessful

"As such, the scheme was only ever anticipated to continue until that funding was all spent, unless other sources of funding could be identified.

"Staff have made several unsuccessful attempts to secure funding support from local businesses whose employees used the service in order to enable the scheme to continue.

The council has had its funding from central government reduced year-on-year for the best part of a decade and this is set to continue until 2020. As a result, the council is not in a position to provide subsidised travel to Pimbo Employment Area.

Consequently, the lack of funding support from local businesses left the council with no option but to take the difficult decision to bring the scheme to a close due to a lack of funds.

"It should be noted however, that the scheme was only ever intended to provide help to those newly-returned to work for a short period, to enable them time to save some money in order to make arrangements for their own transport to work on a more permanent basis.

"So all members of the scheme were aware that their membership of the scheme was time-limited, and not a permanent solution for transport to work."

Trust says patients who waited more than six weeks for bowel cancer tests 'chose to do so'

Health chiefs refute NHS England report's claims on referral times

by Danielle Thompson

SOUTHPORT and Ormskirk NHS Trust has refuted claims that patients are being made to wait longer than national targets for bowel screening tests - and has instead suggested that those who waited more than six weeks 'chose to do so'.

Last week, the Champion revealed that new figures released by NHS England showed that the trust had breached national waiting time targets for potentially life-saving tests to diagnose bowel cancer.

Under NHS rules patients should wait no more than six weeks for a colonoscopy or flexi-sigmoidoscopy, both of which detect the UK's second biggest cancer early on when it is easier to treat, giving patients a greater chance of survival.

The tests use a camera on a thin, flexible cable to look at different parts of the bowel and detect cancer at the earliest stages and remove pre-cancerous growths, known as polyps.

Elaine Deeming, lead cancer nurse

Figures for Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust, show 113 patients went on a waiting list for a colonoscopy, while 5.3% of those waited six weeks or more.

Meanwhile, for flexi-sigmoidoscopy, 60 patients were on a waiting list, 3.3% of which were waiting more than six weeks.

However, Elaine Deeming, lead cancer nurse at the trust, said: "GPs referred 1,617 patients to the trust with a suspected bowel cancer in the last full year. One in 20 of such patients will receive a cancer diagnosis.

"The small number of patients waiting more than six weeks for a diagnostic test have usually made the choice to do so themselves."

Tenant's fears after 'absestos found in flats' ceilings' claim

'No risk to residents or the public' says council

Report by Henry James

WEST Lancs Council say there is "no risk to residents or the public" despite claims that asbestos has been treated at a block of flats in the town.

A council tenant who contacted the Champion said he had been told by workmen that asbestos has been found in the ceilings of the communal hallways at a block of 50 flats in Eskdale.

And the man, who has lived at the property for a number of years but asked not to be named, demanded to know why the local authority was "doing nothing to protect residents."

He said the workmen were putting sealant on the ceilings of the communal hallways to cover over the asbestos, but that no work was being done on the residents' flats at 124-228 Eskdale.

However, a spokesman for the council said: "There is no risk of exposure from asbestos fibres to residents or the public during works at Eskdale."

Despite this the angry tenant said: "Workmen confirmed to me that they found asbestos in the ceiling of the communal hallways, which is quite serious. They have put sealant on the ceilings in the hallways, however up until now there has been no work inside the flats.

"I was told that when a similar thing happened in Bolton the council there replaced all the ceilings of the flats themselves.

"The asbestos has been there for all the years that we have been living here and there has got to be health implications. The council are responsible and they should be doing something about it.

"What's more they haven't told the residents that there is asbestos here. A note was put up which said work would be happening but there was nothing about asbestos."

The flats at Eskdale

The council spokesman said: "There is no risk of exposure from asbestos fibres to residents or the public during works at Eskdale associated with fitting new inspection hatches in the communal landing and staircase areas.

Controlled

"Work is being undertaken on the ceilings in the communal landing and staircase areas at Eskdale prior to the fitting of new inspection hatches, and is being carried out by a licensed asbestos removal contractor in accordance with the requirements of the Control of Asbestos Regulations 2012.

"The ceilings to the communal landing and staircase areas at Eskdale have trace elements of asbestos in the decorative artex coating to the ceiling areas. This asbestos material is managed by the council in line with the Control of Asbestos Regulations 2012 and the work on the ceilings, which is being carried out by a licensed asbestos removal contractor, is strictly controlled to ensure compliance with those regulations.

"The council have also appointed a third-party adviser to ensure the management of health and safety arrangements are adhered to, and this involves regular site visits and audits. The audits conducted have not raised or recorded any concerns.

"If residents have any concerns about the works the council is happy to discuss those on an individual basis and conduct any necessary inspections, surveys and sampling to reassure residents that their homes are safe."

Councillors have until November 16 to give views on Ashurst housing proposals

WEST Lancs Borough councillors have until Friday, November 16 to give their views on proposals to build 164 homes at Whalleys Road, Ashurst.

Outline planning permission was granted in August 2014 for 630 units at the Whalleys site.

Since then the applicants, builders Kier Living, has met with the authority which informed them that they must submit a 'Reserved Matters scheme' for 129 units and a full application for a 35-unit layout.

There would be a phase one delivery of 129 units and a phase two delivery of the 35 units.

In a design and access statement for the development Kier have said that the development will provide an "economic role", as the delivery of this new housing proposal will bring about economic benefits, such as new construction jobs, increased future spending in the local community, and increased council tax from future occupants.

They also say the homes have "a social role" as the provision of 129 new homes, (forming the Reserved Matters Application) including 39 affordable homes will make a "valued contribution" towards the council's housing supply and will help meet the identified needs of the area.

And they add that the proposed development also provides an opportunity to expand or introduce new services and infrastructure through Section 106 contributions towards relevant public sectors and facilities.

An artist's impression of the layout of the proposed development.

Kier comment that their plans are "supporting strong, healthy communities, through the supply of housing which is delivered to meet the needs of the present and future generations."

And they go on to say that their plans are also providing an environmental role. They write that the statements submitted in support of the application, such as the arboricultural report, tree survey and biodiversity report, "will ensure that the development responds sensitively/appropriately, thus ensuring that the proposal satisfies the environmental role of sustainable development."

Churches show age is no barrier to creating community spirit

THREE Methodist churches in Skelmersdale and Up Holland are proving that age is no barrier to working for the community.

The average age of members at the churches is 70-plus, but that doesnt stopping them contributing to the community they live in.

Up Holland Church has an active café every Tuesday from 9am to noon called The Olive Tree, offering free tea and coffee and fellowship.

Among the many other events going on every week there is a free Moms and Tots group on Tuesdays.

Trinity Church on the High Street has an active keep fit for over 60s, and a Friendship Club that meets every Thursday from 2 to 4pm with a varied programme of outings, films etc. And the last Saturday of the month there is a morning café where everyone is welcome to pop in for a cuppa, bacon rolls, and homemade cakes - or for just a chat.

Meanwhile Digmoor Methodist Church has a thriving Craft and Garden group and a monthly second-hand sale.

A spokesperson for the group said: "Together the three churches' latest joint venture is called Angels For All, which is the idea of our minister, The Rev. Rachel Hope.

"The angels have been crocheted and knitted by the church members and other people. To date there are 1,500 angels and counting. And after they have been blessed in December they will be distributed into the community free to anyone who picks one up."

The churches will also be running The Hope Journey again this year, where local primary schools go along to see The Christmas Story acted out in a novel way.

And they will also be holding autumn and Christmas fairs, starting with Trinity Church's Winter Warmer on Saturday, November 10 from 11am to 2pm featuring the usual stalls.

This will be followed by a fair at Digmoor Church on November 17 and the Up Holland car boot on November 24.

Trinity Church also supports the Oases Project which gives education to children in Riruta, the poorest part of Kenya's capital, Nairobi, and actively supports two children through The Trinity Friendship Club.

Fire station to host fun events for youngsters in run-up to Bonfire Night as part of safety partnership's annual Bright Sparx Campaign

A RANGE of fun-filled activities for youngsters will be held at Skelmersdale Fire Station between 5 and 8pm on Saturday and Sunday, November 3 and 4, as part of an initiative to reduce anti-social behaviour.

West Lancashire Community Safety Partnership has organised the free annual Go4it programme at the station in Tanhouse Road as part of its Bright Sparx Campaign.

The events are open to all age groups but children under 11 must be accompanied by a responsible adult.

Activities will include Pulsar Laser Quest, Total Wipeout Eliminator, Carousel Castle, Batak, Hook-a-Duck stall with sweet prizes and Bouncy Boxing.

Catering supplies and preparation will be provided by Evermoor Hub.

Station manager, Mark Winder, said: "Young people from the Skelmersdale area can attend Skelmersdale Fire Station over the two evenings, where we will provide them with plenty of enjoyable activities.

"The station will be a safe environment for local young people, which assists with reducing the risk of people being hurt in fire-related incidents.

"It also provides somewhere that is fun for the young people to enjoy themselves and engage with the other supporting agencies."

Heidi McDougall, West Lancashire Community Safety Partnership chairperson, said: "Go4it activities provide a lot of fun for young people and are a big part of the Bright Sparx Campaign action plan which aims to reduce anti-social behaviour at this time of year.

Edge Hill earns first 'world class' rating!

Ormskirk campus secures three spots in global university performance tables

For the first time the Ormskirk site has received a coveted overall World University Ranking, and also individual rankings for courses categorised as Social Sciences and Education, awarded by the Times Higher Education.

Edge Hill has secured three spots in the only global university performance tables to judge research-intensive universities across all their core missions - teaching, research, knowledge transfer and international outlook.

It scored an 801-1,000 banding in the overall league table and is ranked in the 301-400 banding in the Education table, covering education, teacher training and academic studies in education courses.

The university is ranked in the 501-600 banding on the Social Sciences subject ranking, which covers its geography, sociology and politics degrees.

The scoring considers the following:

- Teaching: the learning environment.
- Research: volume, income and reputation
- Citations: research influence.
- International outlook: staff, students and research.
- Industry income: innovation.

Edge Hill was originally set up as the first non-denominational teacher training college for women in 1885, so has a long history of delivering education courses.

Its first non-teaching degrees, including geography and applied social sciences, started in 1975. Politics, although offered in the past, has only recently been available again as a degree at Edge Hill University, with the first intake to the current programme in September 2014.

Vice-Chancellor of Edge Hill University, Dr John Cater, said: "We are delighted to secure this global accolade, overall for the institution and for the wide range subjects taught and research delivered in our geography, sociology and politics departments and the Faculty of Education.

"The breadth of subjects covered by these rankings helps to underline the high quality and diverse research and teaching outputs in these courses and emphasise the world-class nature of our learning and teaching."

Residents' feedback prompts county council U-turn on bollards decision

LANCASHIRE County Council chiefs say they have responded to feedback from residents of a West Lancashire village leading to a rethink about the siting of bollards on a pavement.

Four bollards were installed outside number 54 Roby Mill earlier this year, following a request from a resident about pavement parking.

Lancashire Police were aware of this plan at the time.

However, Phil Durnell, head of highways at the county council, said: "Before we put these bollards in, we could have consulted residents and businesses in the village, but this didn't happen at the time. There is no obligation on us to consult, but it would have helped in this case.

"We then received comments from residents about these bollards, which brought this issue to light. When we consulted, the majority of people who responded to us said that parking is not thought to be a significant issue here.

"We looked carefully at all of the information provided and have now taken the decision to remove these bollards.

"We're sorry for what happened and are looking carefully at our processes to stop this from happening again in the future."

Residents and businesses have been informed of the plans.

Four released without charge after Ivydale death declared 'not suspicious'

FOUR men arrested following the death of a man in Skelmersdale, have been released without charge.

Police were called to a house in Ivydale at around 5.30am on Tuesday, October 23 after the discovery of the 34-year-old's body.

A post mortem examination has since been carried out and the man's death is not being treated as suspicious.

Four men from Skelmersdale, aged 31, 35, 40 and 41, arrested on suspicion of murder have since been released without charge.

Ivydale in Skelmersdale

DCI Zoe Russo from Lancashire's Force Major Investigation Team (FMIT), said: "While this is the tragic death of a young man, we do not believe there to be any suspicious circumstances and a file will now be prepared for the coroner."

Veteran refused benefit says authorities are guilty of neglecting former Armed Forces members

Report by Henry James

AN Armed Forces veteran from Up Holland has accused the Government of neglecting ex-Services personnel after he had a claim for Personal Independence Payment (PIP) refused.

Mike Donoghue, who has served with the First Battalion the King's Regiment, claims that the payment was refused because the Department for Work and Pensions do not recognise Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD), a condition that he suffers from.

Now he fears he might lose his home.

PIP awards are set up to help people with the extra costs due to long-term ill health or disability.

But the 61-year-old said: "I joined the army at 15 and served for many years, but now I am asking for something back the authorities don't want to know.

"No-one wants to help veterans, even if they have PTSD. I have served my country and fought in three different continents.

"I have also been to the Far East, done tours of Northern Ireland and been involved in protecting the Royal Family.

"I have seen things no-one should have to see and when I was in the army I had to do things no-one should have to do.

"But it feels like no-one cares about us. I was in Wigan the other day and there was an ex Para sitting on the streets. It seemed like nobody cared about him. It is so wrong to see people just on the streets.

Forces veteran Mike Donoghue.

"There should be a minister in charge of veterans' affairs.

"I have spoken to MP Rosie Cooper's office to see if they can do anything to help me."

However, he did praise the work of Forces charity, SSAFA.

A spokesman for the Department for Work and Pensions told the Champion: "We deeply value the welfare of our serving personnel and veterans, and we encourage anyone in need to take advantage of the range of support available.

"This includes our two 24-hour helplines which can provide advice on topics from mental health to housing and finances.

"Assessments are important to ensure that people get the right level of support. PIP assessments are carried out by qualified healthcare professionals based on all of the evidence provided by a claimant and their GP. They understand that not everyone is affected by a health condition in the same way."

Support

The DWP has said PIP is a benefit that doesn't depend on diagnosis or name of condition. The assessment process is in place to determine whether a person satisfies the qualifying conditions.

They have added that all claimants can request a mandatory review of any assessment decision, and a further free independent tribunal.

The spokesman added: "The Government is committed to providing timely support to serving personnel through the Defence Medical Services. For veterans, a range of initiatives have been introduced, including NHS England's Veterans Mental Health Transition Intervention and Liaison Service, and the Veterans Mental Health Complex Treatment Service, for those living in England."

Care home announces senior appointments

TWO senior appointments have been announced at a care home in Skelmersdale aimed at 'leading it forward into the next phase of development'.

Vicky Sudworth has been promoted to general manager at the Birch Green Care Home, while Emma Kay becomes deputy manager to lead the 100-plus strong team at the site in Ivydale.

With many years of experience in the NHS, Vicky says she will be developing a "diverse" range of services including nursing and personal care, specialist dementia care, mental health conditions and end of life care.

Emma also has wide experience as a qualified mental health nurse at Birch Green where she has helped to develop services for the last seven years. She is also an award-winner in the Great British Care Awards North West's Good Nurse category.

Vicky said: "Emma and I relish the opportunity to develop the wide range of services we offer at Birch Green to make sure we are serving the needs of the local community.

"As an organisation we want to provide the very best quality of care possible and to that end we commit a lot of time and resource in the quality of training of our staff at all levels and ultimately how that benefits our residents."

Birch Green Care Home is part of the Springhill Care Group, which also operates homes in Accrington and Bristol.

Recently, inspectors from the industry's watchdog the Care Quality Commission (CQC) made particular note of the commitment and quality of staff and the training they receive at Birch Green in awarding the home a 'good' rating.

During the CQC inspection all areas of the home were examined, from the safety of the service to how it is led, with inspectors looking at everything from how medicines are stored to the quality of day-to-day activities.

Looking forward to their new roles at Birch Green Care Home . . . deputy manager Emma Kay and general manager Vicky Sudworth

New powered wheelchair will help Baris achieve university ambition and enjoy a fuller social life

A TEENAGER who suffers from a degenerative condition that leads to progressive muscle weakness has been given a new sense of independence and the chance to achieve his ambition to go to university - thanks to a massive financial helping hand!

Former Up Holland High School pupil, Baris Inel has spinal muscular atrophy and as a full-time wheelchair-user was reliant on family and carers to assist in hoisting him into his chair, change his body posture and help him to access services.

Having outgrown his old wheelchair, the 16-year-old was desperately in need of a new powered one to enable him to complete his education and continue to enjoy a social life.

However, there was a huge stumbling block in the shape of the cost at a near-£20,000!

Mum, Janet, explains: "The powered wheelchair that best suited Baris's needs cost an eye-watering £19,649 - way beyond the family's budget.

"My husband, Halil, and I were extremely worried as a new chair was vital for my son's continued development. He did extremely well in his GCSE and is now studying for A levels in Maths, Further Maths and Physics at Winstanley College.

"His ambition is to study maths at university but without a new powered wheelchair this simply wouldn't be possible."

Baris in his new chair.

Fortunately the family were signposted to Caudwell Children, a national charity proving practical and emotional support to disabled children and their families.

And they - along with a number of other charities, including Action for Kids - provided the financial support necessary for the family to purchase a new powered wheelchair, allowing Baris to continue to flourish and develop his independence.

It is also helping him in his leisure time, as Halil explained: "Baris simply adores football. He loves watching Manchester United and he's been playing powerchair football since he was seven.

"It's one of the reasons that he gets out of bed every morning and it's given him a fantastic circle of friends which is not only great for Baris, it's brilliant for the whole family as we get to meet like-minded parents and we've created a genuine support network among the group.

"Importantly, the new chair helps Baris to get to and from training sessions and matches."

It has also proved a life-changer in more ways. Baris can now enjoy going for a meal with friends or an evening at the bowling alley.

"He can even access cash machines now," added Janet. "And the new chair also allows him to have some control over his posture and minimises the times he has to ask for assistance.

"The powered foot and leg rests also help to alleviate pain, and the chair even has lights to help him navigate around uneven ground in the semi-rural area where we live."

Men-Aces frustrated by lack of home facility

Disability football squad celebrate another 'away day' success but long to welcome visiting sides to Skem

OFFCIALS of the Skelmersdale Men-Aces disability football club are celebrating another successful 'away day' performance while bemoaning their lack of a home facility in the town.

Coach Mim Eaton spoke of the club's frustration when one of her players - following a fixture at the AFC Masters in Bolton - asked her why the side can't play at home.

She said: "The player asked me: 'Why don't teams come to us, don't they like us?'

"That question was a real blow, but I had to explain to the lads in a positive manner even though inside I was angry, annoyed and frustrated.

"We travel many miles and go to some lovely venues but sadly there is nowhere suitable for us to bring teams to come and play us, as much as we would love for teams to visit us.

"Maybe one day when I win the lottery we can build our own little ground and bring teams home. Until then we will just have to carry on singing and having a laugh on our bus as we travel to different clubs!

"Seriously though, it is getting embarrassing. In this day and age we should have better sports facilities in every town, affordable activities to suit everyone's budgets. The Government, and health professionals are constantly going on about our health, and yet they won't put money into deprived areas or small towns.

"Our players shouldn't have to be asking questions like that. It shouldn't be on their minds, they just want to play football."

Meanwhile the Men-Aces took two teams over to Bolton and came away with four wins out of four at a fixture which is a favourite with the lads because of the warm welcome they receive.

County council's call for public to prepare for winter

Report by Henry James

WITH colder weather already beginning to bite Lancashire County Council chiefs are urging residents to do their bit to help themselves and any vulnerable friends and relatives by making sure they are prepared for winter.

A suggested checklist includes stocking up on salt to treat icy paths around the home; preparing vehicles for cold conditions; or making sure elderly or vulnerable neighbours are warm and well.

Meanwhile the county council's fleet of gritters is ready to keep Lancashire moving by treating 1,800 miles of high-priority roads within four hours whenever a freeze is forecast.

And the authority's highways teams have been busy re-stocking more than 2,600 grit bins which are usually on roads that are not on a gritting route, or where there's a particular hazard.

Cabinet member for highways and transport, County Councillor Keith Iddon, said: "We're ready for winter and to do all we can to keep traffic moving on the busiest roads, which make up around a third of all roads in the county.

"At the same time, however, there's a limit to what the county council can do, and we don't try to hide the fact that we can't grit every road. Even if we had the resources to do this we couldn't grit them quickly enough to make a real difference.

"Therefore it's important that everyone does their bit to make sure they're prepared for any cold and icy weather we might get over the winter.

"Conditions are already beginning to get colder so now is the ideal time to check your car tyres, battery, lights, indicators, windscreen wipers and washers and coolant level.

County council highways workers, Paul Ruddock and Ian Miller refilling grit bins as the authority gears up for the cold weather to come

"We'd also ask people to remember to drive according to the conditions in winter. Roads can remain icy even after they've been gritted, so it's vital to drive with caution when conditions are close to, or below, freezing.

"And aside from travelling, winter can be a difficult time for vulnerable people, and we'd ask people to keep an eye on friends, relatives and neighbours. Please check that vulnerable people are keeping warm, and see whether they might need help with shopping or visiting the doctor if you think they could have difficulty getting out."

Grateful

The county council re-stocks grit bins and salt heaps as often as possible, but is also urging people to help by using them responsibly. Grit bins are provided in places where ice could cause a particular risk, such as on steep bends, and the salt should only be used to make the roads and pavements safer for everyone.

Cllr. Iddon added: "Grit bins play a vital part in helping to keep our roads and pavements safe and we're grateful for people using it to provide better traction on any icy patches. However I'd like to emphasise that this salt is only for use on roads and pavements, and we'd ask people to use it responsibly and sparingly to make it last as long as possible. In most places a fine coating will be effective, with only around a tablespoon being needed to cover a square metre, so a shovelful will go a long way.

"You can buy grit for your personal use from a range of DIY stores and it's important that the material in grit bins is still there when it's needed for the roads and pavements."

500-plus temporary jobs on offer at Royal Mail to help with Christmas rush

Report by Henry James

ROYAL Mail is still seeking around 550 temporary workers to help cope with the increased Christmas post and growing online shopping orders at its North West Temporary Parcel Sort Centre in Skelmersdale.

Temporary positions across a variety of shifts are available from now through to early January, although the peak of the additional temporary work will be in the busiest month of December.

The company says 'competitive pay' and 'flexible working' across a range of shifts is being offered.

More than 550 people are needed in the Skelmersdale parcel centre. The temporary recruits will help to sort Christmas parcels and cards, as well as the growing amount of online shopping orders before they are taken to delivery offices for postmen and women to take out on their rounds.

Other roles are also available at Manchester mail centre.

Royal Mail has set up a dedicated website for people to apply for the Christmas positions at https://christmasrecruitment.royalmail-group.com. Alternatively interested applicants can email Christmas_helpline@royalmail.com or call the automated helpline on 0345 600 1785.

Royal Mail Manchester mail centre manager, James Jack, said: "Christmas continues to be our busiest time of year. We plan all year round to ensure we deliver the best possible service for UK consumers and businesses before, during and after the festive season. We still need more people to apply for roles at our Skelmersdale centre and in Manchester."

‘Silent Soldiers’ will form part of borough’s Remembrance tributes

WEST Lancashire Borough Council is working on tributes to mark the 100th anniversary of the end of the First World War.

The council has bought three ‘Silent Soldier Silhouettes’ from the Royal British Legion which have poppy emblems and a base plate plaque inscribed with the text ‘1914-1918’ and ‘Lest we forget’.

Two have been placed at the war memorials in Skelmersdale and Burscough and the third will be placed by the memorial in Ormskirk in time for Remembrance Sunday on November 11.

Council leader, Councillor Ian Moran, himself a veteran of the armed forces, said: “The silhouettes are a poignant reminder of the sacrifices made by all who served in the Great War. West Lancashire is very proud of its links with the armed forces and the council is proud to play its role in recognising the importance of commemorating the centenary. We have a series of tributes planned to mark this important time in our history.”

The authority will also be cleaning its memorials and has worked with the parish council to re-gild the name plaques on the Up Holland war memorial.

Around the time of Remembrance Sunday the Clock Tower in Ormskirk and the Light Cube in Skelmersdale will be coloured red and white for the commemorations.

On Remembrance Sunday a piper will play ‘When the Battle’s O’er’ in Coronation Park, Ormskirk at 6am to mark the time when the Armistice was signed 100 years ago.

During the day veterans’ organisations, the council, and a number of parish councils and local churches will be organising Remembrance Sunday Services across the borough.

Then in the evening a beacon will be lit in Beacon Country Park at 7pm as West Lancashire joins more than 370 councils and 1,000 beacon sites nationwide in a collective act of respect and recognition.

Council officials, Royal British Legion standard bearers and local veterans with the ‘Silent Soldier Silhouette’ at Skelmersdale war memorial.

Prior to the lighting of the beacons the Last Post will be played at venues across the country.

For more details of events and World War One commemorations visit the new page on the council’s website www.westlancs.gov.uk/ww1.

The council-owned Chapel Gallery is also hosting a World War One Heritage Project recognising the role of women during the war. The council has secured Heritage Lottery funding to develop this in partnership with Edge Hill University and Ormskirk and District Family History Society. The exhibition, ‘Opening the Gates’, will involve local schools and is planned to run until January 19 next year.

The popular War Horse Walk leaflet has been relaunched and is available from the council offices, the customer service point at the Concourse Shopping Centre, Skelmersdale and Ormskirk Library and can be downloaded from www.DiscoverOrmskirk.com.

Church and community to mark 100th anniversary of end of First World War

Report by Henry James

A SERIES of special events commemorating the 100th anniversary of the end of the First World War will be held in the first two weeks of November at St John the Baptist Church Burscough and throughout the local community.

These will include commemorative displays, a national art exhibition and a performance of the acclaimed Edinburgh Fringe play, Brothers in Arms.

They will start with a special Remembrance 100 Exhibition, open daily from Thursday, November 1 to Tuesday, November 13. This will mark military and civilian service during both world wars and more recent conflicts, featuring uniforms and items, medals, and stories of those who served. The national art installation, There But Not There, will also be hosted as a tribute to the Fallen.

A special local commemorative project, Everyone Remembered, has been developed in partnership with the Royal British Legion and other churches and businesses in Burscough. This will remember all the military personnel from Burscough and the surrounding area who died in the First World War. At St John's and throughout the village there will be remembrance cards of each individual, and window displays decorated with knitted poppies.

Booths supermarket will also feature a special exhibition acknowledging the sacrifice of the war horses which passed through the area on their way to the Western Front.

Rev. David Banbury in First World War uniform at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.

A series of evening events will also be held at St John's church. On Friday, November 2 at 7.30pm, Rev David Banbury and Pete Tomkinson will be sharing stories of their time in the British Army serving in Iraq and Afghanistan, entitled Faith Under Fire,

There will be two film nights showing, on Saturdays, November 3 and 10 from 7pm. The first, Joyeux Noel (cert.12), follows the events surrounding the Christmas Truce of 1914. The following week's showing will be Hacksaw Ridge (cert.15, with some graphic scenes), a true story of an army medic's inspiring heroism in the Second World War.

Both faith and film nights will be followed by informal discussions about the issues explored in the films.

On Friday, November 9 at 7.30pm the church will host a talk all about itself. St John the Baptist Church was built in the commemorative style of the Waterloo Churches marking Wellington's victory over Napoleon, while the East window was installed as a remembrance gift from the local community to commemorate the end of the First World War.

Local historian David Orritt will present an illustrated talk all about the building and those commemorated in the stained glass window.

The closing event, fresh from its sell-out run at this year's Edinburgh Fringe Festival, will be a performance of Brothers in Arms at 7.30pm on Tuesday, November 13. The play tells the true story of the Chavasse brothers who served with great distinction in the First World War. Tickets cost £3 and are available from the church office with all proceeds going to forces charities.

Finally, there will be a series of commemorative services throughout the day on Remembrance Sunday, November 11, with communion and family worship at 9am and 10.50am, a Churches Together Service at the Burscough war memorial at 2pm, followed by a Civic Remembrance Service at St John's at 3pm during which all of the names of those recorded on the village war memorial will be remembered.

School and nursery pupils raise funds to maintain defibrillator

YOUNGSTERS at an Ormskirk primary school and nursery have joined forces to raise money to maintain essential life saving equipment kept on site.

Pupils from West End Primary School in Grimshaw Lane, and the Portico Day Nursery at West End, located in the school grounds, dressed in red and brought donations for Restart a Heart Day.

The school has a defibrillator based on site which is available not only for the school and nursery to use in an emergency situation, but for the local community also.

The objective of the day was to remind pupils how to take care of their hearts and to raise funds which will go towards replacing the expired defibrillator pads.

A defibrillator is a device that gives a high-energy electric shock to the heart through the chest wall to someone who is in cardiac arrest.

In Britain approximately 12 people under the age of 35 will die each week from a sudden cardiac arrest, and 270 children die every year from cardiac arrest on school premises.

The children took part in various forms of exercise to raise their heart beats and also took their pulse and learned more about the heart.

Head teacher, Phil Clarke, said: "We want to maintain this vital equipment should any members of our community need it."

Amanda Wiley, manager at the Portico nursery, added: "The staff and parents have worked extremely hard to have a defibrillator on site so it's imperative we look after it."

Family's £10k gift to home

THE owners and management of a West Lancs nursing home have thanked the family of a former resident for a generous donation of £10,000.

As previously reported, the family of the late Alex Stewart had donated two clocks and a bench to the Springfield Court Nursing Home in Aughton, following his brief stay there.

Alex, the founder of a global company which provides professional inspection and laboratory analysis services to individuals, businesses and governments around the world, had been at the home in Springfield Road for just six days when he passed away unexpectedly at the age of 83.

Home manager, Linda Burrows, said: "Alex Stewart International's friends and family are sincerely thanked by Springfield Court Nursing Home for their wonderful donation of funds. In addition to the bench and clocks given in Alex's memory, the donation was used towards additional improvements to our nurse call system.

"The donations amounted to a total of £10,000 and the owners, residents and staff are eternally grateful to the company directors, family and friends who contributed to such a magnificent donation. Our best wishes go to all who have assisted us in Alex's memory."

Amazed by reader's 'loads of land' claim!

I ENJOY readers' weekly comments and views, though it helps if they are made after some research rather than 'shooting from the hip'.

So one writer's letter mentioning that an improvement will arise due to the "benevolence" of property developers "and anyway it is old farm land which has clearly outlived its usefulness" left me speechless.

As Mark Twain said about land - "they are not making it anymore!" Compared to the USA, France and elsewhere in the world which have vast amounts available, we are "land poor."

In the UK how many new houses are crammed next to each other, and with no garages? And is it a crime to scrimp and save to buy a house?

Perhaps if priorities were different these days first-timers. etc, would manage to buy them - without the need for Government assistance.

Turning to fracking, I have an open mind but the day after this started recently Blackpool suffered five earthquakes.

This was surely predictable.

However, the comment that we have loads of land was an eye-opener.

Most of what we have, in Wales and Scotland in particular, is scenic but unable to become arable.

Is the writer unfamiliar with the need to grow crops to produce the 5% ethanol content in petrol demanded by the EU, which is shortly to increase to 10%? To achieve just 5% would require 60% of our arable land turned over just to such crops, so there would clearly be little left for food.

I do agree though that solar panels, if appropriately sited (for example on motorway verges) would be a big benefit.

Amazed of Aughton, details supplied.

Has my doctors' practice just been privatised?

SOME great letters about our heath service. This really matters to everyone, so thanks for being so supportive.

Would I be wrong in suggesting that Clinical Commissioning Groups (CCG) are privatising doctors' practices?

About 12 months ago I went to my doctor in Birleywood, Skelmersdale who arranged a meeting with a private company called PDS Medical. I discovered this company had been set up by a CCG from Blackpool.

I did not use them but went to Ormskirk Hospital instead. The appointment at Ormskirk was earlier but as this was NHS, I had to arrange the appointment myself. That in itself was wholly unprofessional.

I have now received a text to say that Skelmersdale Family Practice is now called Excel Primary Care. I researched and found Excel is a private company that oversees doctors' practices in the UK.

They do questionnaires and produce pretty pie charts to show how well, or not well each practice is doing. They are a bit like OFSTED, only I can't see doctors taken into special measures because we have to wait three weeks for an appointment.

However, I now find Excel Primary Care has another role to play. They say, we are 'a GP Partnership operating over three health centres in Skelmersdale & Upholland; Birleywood Health Centre, Sandy Lane Health Centre & Matthew Ryder Clinic'.

Am I right in thinking my doctors' practice has just been privatised? Please tell me I am wrong.

Chris Carr,
Little Digmoor, Skelmersdale.

We should be living the dream not dreaming it!

WHEN we decided to move our family back to West Lancs, it was because of the fond memories myself and my partner had of growing up here.

West Lancs has a lot to offer and I cherish the community feel that I never felt in a big city.

Yes, the market's got smaller, the bus station is still an eyesore and the ring road's like a car park most of the time, but there are lots of positives to celebrate.

Coronation Park is much smarter, there's plenty of events held in the town and we still have a library.

Edge Hill is blamed for the lack of affordable housing, the anti-social behaviour and the traffic, yet without the university Ormskirk would be like a ghost town.

I think WLBC needs to remember that the majority of West Lancs residents are proud of where we live. We've actually chosen to live here and we want our children to grow up being proud of where they live.

Come on, WLBC, do your part and deliver what you've promised. We should be living the dream, not dreaming of it!

Ormskirk resident.

When will proposals become reality?

I AM writing in response to the letter from Barrie French entitled 'I have a dream' published in your letters page dated October 17.

Mr French actually made me think as some of the points he raises in his letter I am sure I have seen reference to previously, or have I too been dreaming?

It then dawned on me that I have, in fact, not been dreaming as many of these proposals were actually put forward in the West Lancashire Highways and Transport Masterplan of 2014 following a lengthy consultation process.

We are now in October of 2018, four years on from the plan being produced, and the points raised within it, many of which Mr French has been dreaming about, have failed to materialise.

I wonder if our current council are ever going to move forward with the plan or are they waiting to see if the vast expansion of housing and development they propose for the area may impact on the Transport Masterplan?

I suppose like Mr French we can all keep dreaming !

Gordon Johnson, Ormskirk.

'I HAD a dream - and then reality hit home' (Letters, October 17) made me smile. Not a lot to smile about living in Ormskirk since the council released the new local plan.

I would like to add to the list of dreams the situation in Ormskirk caused by lack of parking for students at Edge Hill University. The dream should include a park and ride from the M58 through to the university and stop Edge Hill from taking any more Green Belt from Ormskirk.

Thank you, Barrie French, your letter was superb.

New podiatry care system will lead to more foot problems

I AGREE with Mr Maurice Baxter (Letters, October 17) who says he has been informed that only acute problems will be seen by their chiropodist staff since Virgin took over.

I too was advised and actively encouraged to attend podiatry at the walk-in centre. Now it seems we are no longer allowed this service and must pay privately for it.

When I say I paid National Insurance from 1955 to 2000, I am being selfish as there are lots worse off than me. Yes there are, but it is a poor show when you are advised to take up a service and encouraged to take care of your feet because you are diabetic and then you are made to feel like a scrounger when you do.

I was a nurse from 1962 to 2013, yet now I need help I am refused and told to pay for it by the very staff who encouraged me to attend.

I foresee many more foot problems and amputations due to this money-grabbing decision.

Celia Fairhurst, Skelmersdale.

Decision puts profits before patients

I REFER to Maurice Baxter's letter headed ' Virgin management couldn't care less,' (Champion, October 17).

This relates to podiatry care being taken over and run by Virgin Care and that from now on only acute problems will be seen by a chiropodist.

Mr Baxter, of course, has the right to pay for a private podiatry if he can afford it but if not, tough. He is right, this is a profit-generated decision by a private company wedded to making profit first and treating people second.

Mr Baxter asks an important question: Who gave Virgin Care the contract? The Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) gave the contract to 'Virgin Don't Care' and in doing so are helping rather nicely move us towards privatisation.

Joseph Welsh, Tanhouse, Skelmersdale

Speeding drivers turning Tower Hill into a rat run

RE: Tower Hill, Ormskirk, when is anyone going to take notice of 20mph speed limit as cars are parked on both sides of the road?

Today a bin wagon stopped in middle of the road to empty bins and a Vauxhall came around the bend in the road and had to suddenly stop as it was going more than 20mph. I had already stopped to let it go but she overtook me.

When is this going to stop? It has become a rat run.

Moor Hall recognised at regional property awards

Report by Kenny Parker

MOOR Hall Restaurant in Aughton has been recognised at this year's North West Property Awards (NWPAs).

Following the awarding of its second Michelin star, the restaurant won 'Best Commercial Scheme' at the prestigious award ceremony held at Liverpool Metropolitan Cathedral's Lutyens Crypt

The hall, a Grade II listed gentry house on Prescot Road built in the 1500s, was acquired by Andy and Tracey Bell in 2015 and has since undergone a major renovation and refurbishment, designed by architects Falconer Chester Hall.

It opened as a restaurant in March of last year and has since won a string of awards for its cuisine, as well its renovation at the 2017 West Lancashire Design Awards.

The NWPAs is an annual event which celebrates a year of success across the property industry and about 300 guests attended the glamorous awards ceremony.

A total of 13 awards were presented on the night, ranging from Show Home of the Year, Best Property Law Firm and Best Student Landlord, to the Regeneration Award.

Kim O'Brien, director of the NWPAs, said: "Moor Hall has been carefully restored and converted into a stunning restaurant with rooms and has quickly become the go-to place for fine dining in the region having just received its second Michelin star.

"Congratulations to Falconer Chester Hall on such fantastic vision for this project."

Architect, Alastair Shepherd, of Falconer Chester Hall, added: "We're delighted to have received this award, which reflects the commitment for everyone involved. We're grateful for the opportunity to deliver a contemporary building alongside the restored Tudor hall and barn."

Contestants sought for TV's Blind Date

LOVELORN West Lancs residents are being invited to apply to be contestants on TV's Blind Date.

The programme, which was extremely popular when fronted by the late Cilla Black from 1985 to 2003, was re-launched last year with comedian Paul O'Grady as host.

A spokesperson for the show said: "We are coming back for more fun in 2018/19 off the back of the latest series with Paul O'Grady being a huge success and we are again looking for more single people across the UK to take part. Closing date for applications is Sunday, November 25."

To apply, email BlindDate@sotelevision.co.uk.

Villages remember First World War fallen

VILLAGES in West Lancashire will be marking the 100th anniversary of the end of the First World War by remembering local men who lost their lives in the conflict.

A Remembrance Tea Room event at Appley Bridge Community Centre on Sunday, November 4 from 1 to 4 pm, will bring to life the stories of the 15 villagers who gave their lives for their country between 1914 and 1918.

The event will start with a Three Churches Together poetry reading and prayers. There will also be a sing-along of songs from the era. People can sample ANZAC biscuits and Trench Cake, baked using authentic recipes and the Royal British Legion is supplying official merchandise and collection boxes.

Appley Bridge Community Association has been awarded 15 soldier silhouettes by the Armed Forces Covenant Fund Trust to represent the fallen villagers. The silhouettes have been created for the national project There But Not There, which aims to commemorate those who died in the First World War wherever there is a Roll of Honour. They will be on show in the community centre.

Local authors have collaborated to write a book that tells the stories of the Appley Bridge men, and the book will be available for purchase on the day.

Meanwhile St Cuthbert's Church in Halsall has been awarded five silhouettes from the Armed Forces Covenant Trust to represent the 'Tommies' from Halsall who fought in the Great War.

The silhouettes have been installed in the pews where they will remain until the end of November covering the period of the armistice 100 years ago.

Particularly poignant are two silhouettes placed side by side representing brothers Charles and Joseph Prescott.

Churchwarden Stephen Henders has created a map of the churchyard showing all the First World War graves and several memorials. He hopes the representations of the soldiers will honour those men who did make it home and those who didn't and whose memorials remain empty because their bodies were never found and they lie where they fell.

The Remembrance Day service on Sunday, November 11 will be followed by a special peal of bells.

The Armed Forces Covenant Fund Trust makes awards and grants to projects that support the Armed Forces Community. More information about their work can be found at www.covenantfund.org.uk.

Silhouettes to commemorate 'Tommies' from the Halsall area will remain at St Cuthbert's Church until the end of November.

Students from St Bede's RC High School in the council chamber with the Mayor and Mayoress of West Lancs, Councillor Noel Delaney and Ann Stubbert, and Councillor Gareth Dowling.

Pupils enjoy lesson in decision-making

Youngsters become 'councillors for a day' as part of Local Democracy Week

SCHOOLCHILDREN became 'councillors for a day' when they staged debates in the West Lancs Council chamber to help them learn more about how the borough council operates.

The mock meetings were held as part of Local Democracy Week, an annual event to help young people learn more about their local authority and the important role it plays.

Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Noel Delaney, welcomed groups of young people to the council chamber for a day which included debates and mock voting exercises.

Pupils from St Anne's Catholic Primary School, Ormskirk, attended in the morning and children from St Bede's Catholic Hugh School, Ormskirk, in the afternoon.

Each school appointed a pupil as 'chief officer' to help run the meeting alongside the mayor, with the remaining children acting as councillors.

The theme of both sessions was 'Citizen participation, consultation and commitment for a thriving local democracy' and the young participants were asked to consider the question: 'Should the students be allowed a greater say in the running of their school?'

Council staff organised workshops for the youngsters to take part in where they considered a number of statements and had to decide whether they agreed or disagreed with them.

Following the debates, the pupils cast their votes at a 'polling station' specially set up for them.

Councillor Delaney said: "Holding a mock debate is an excellent way for young people to learn about local government and understand how councils work. I was impressed by the pupils' enthusiasm in the debate and the voting exercise that followed.

"I hope Local Democracy Week will encourage the children to take an interest from an early age in their local council and some of the decision-making processes that are used."

Commissioner backs call for Government to prioritise policing

Report by Henry James

LANCASHIRE'S Police and Crime Commissioner, Clive Grunshaw has joined calls for the Government to boost funding for policing or face 'dire consequences for public safety and criminal justice.'

Mr Grunshaw supported a report released by the Home Affairs Committee urging the Government to prioritise policing in the Autumn Budget.

The report comes just weeks after a National Audit Office report criticised ministers for not understanding the impact that funding cuts have had on police forces; and days after potentially crippling police pension contribution changes were announced.

Since 2010 Lancashire has had to make more than £84m worth of savings as a direct result of the Government cutting £50m of central funding during the same period, with an additional £18m of savings required by 2022.

The constabulary has also lost 800 police officer posts and 350 support staff meaning there are increasingly fewer places to make savings.

Clive Grunshaw (above) says the current funding for policing isn't sufficient to deal with growing demand.

In the wide-ranging Policing for the Future report looking at the changing demands on policing, the Home Affairs Committee found that forces are struggling to cope in the face of changing and rising crimes and warn that the Home Office cannot continue to stand back while police forces struggle.

The report also found that in many areas, the police force is being used as the sole emergency service for mental health crisis.

Clive Grunshaw said: "I believe the total level of funding provided to policing by government is the most significant issue facing the service. Police officers in Lancashire are working around the clock to keep people safe but they are over-stretched.

Cutbacks

"This report reaffirms what I have been saying for some time - policing urgently needs more money. The current funding for policing isn't sufficient to deal with growing demand and the current funding arrangements, which places the burden of police funding into council tax payers, isn't sustainable.

"The constabulary is managing not just an increase in crime, with the emergency 999 and 101 service receiving thousands more calls than they did in previous years, but also non-crime demands, including mental health and social care, as a consequence of cutbacks affecting other services and partners.

"Changing and increasing demand means officers are needed to do different roles so they can be there when the public really need them, dealing with increasingly complex issues such as cybercrime, child and adult exploitation and online abuse."

County's Labour group call for suspension of fracking following latest tremor at Little Plumpton

Report by Henry James

FOLLOWING the largest tremor to be recorded at the Preston New Road site at Little Plumpton earlier this week, Lancashire County Council's Labour group is calling for fracking to be suspended by the Government.

The councillors believe that Cuadrilla have been trying to play down the events.

On Monday fracking was stopped at Little Plumpton after the 1.1 magnitude earthquake, which was the biggest since work started at the site two weeks ago.

Caudrilla have stopped fracking for short periods following earlier tremors only to start up again within a few days.

But the county council's Labour group believe this self-regulation does not appear to be reducing the size or frequency of the earthquakes.

And they have put forward the following motion for the next full council: 'We call upon the chief executive to write to the Prime Minister on behalf of Lancashire County Council requesting that:

1) Fracking on the Preston New Road site is suspended by order of the Government.

2) An independent enquiry investigates the earthquakes being felt within the local area.

3) That fracking is suspended in Lancashire until the independent enquiry publishes its findings.

County Councillor John Fillis

Skelmersdale East County Councillor John Fillis, Labour deputy leader, said: "These earthquakes were not happening before drilling started so clearly there is a link with the fracking on this site.

"Fracking was shut down at the previous site near Blackpool due to earthquakes. It was claimed that these problems had been overcome and it was now safe. It would appear that such claims by Cuadrilla are neither sound nor reliable.

"The Government who overturned Lancashire County Council's decision to refuse fracking at the Preston New Road site now have to take on this responsibility. The Government has a duty to protect local people and suspend fracking, not only on this site but across the county.

"We need an independent enquiry as under self-regulation these seismic events have increased in size and frequency.

"With Cuadrilla putting profits before the safety of local people, in order to assure local people fracking should be suspended until the enquiry report has been published to enable everyone to consider its findings.

"This is not just about the Preston New Road, fracking site. The Government is supporting fracking right across Lancashire and is consulting on changing planning laws to prevent local people and councils from blocking these developments.

"The people of Lancashire deserve answers to their genuine concerns."

Cuadrilla have said the latest tremor was a very long way from anything that would cause damage or harm.

Meanwhile Aurora Energy Resources are holding a second public information event on their plans to frack for gas at Altcar Moss on Friday, November 2 from 4 to 7.30pm at Haskayne Village Hall.

Scouts enjoy busy half-term

SCOUTS from the Skelmersdale St Paul's and the 1st Skelmersdale troops spent the half- term holidays cooking, hiking, camping under tarps and contacting Scouts from all around the globe.

Friday evening saw them setting up open shelters and preparing for the next two days. This included agreeing a 12 .5 mile hike for the Saturday, setting up computers and agreeing what to say when contacting Scouts on the Saturday evening on the Internet throughout the world. This event is know'n as Jota Joti.

The hike took place through some of the most attractive rural areas of West Lancashire and was completed in just over five hours.

Rachel completes challenges to earn prestigious award

Report by Kenny Parker

A GIRL Guide from Ormskirk has achieved the organisation's highest award.

Rachel Melling was presented with the Queen's Guide Award at the House of Commons by Julie Bell, Deputy Chief Guide.

To achieve the prestigious award Rachel took on a series of personal challenges in areas such as social action, voluntary work and travel. Fewer than 150 young women out of the hundreds of thousands of Girlguiding members are presented with the award each year and they have to complete their challenges before they turn 26.

It took Rachel just 15 months to complete her Queen's Guide activities which is regarded as a testament to her organisation and commitment.

Rachel said: "Girlguiding has given me the skills for life to complete difficult challenges and has taught me if you believe in yourself, you can do anything."

While completing the Queen's Guide Award, Rachel gained the confidence to apply for the Go for GOLD (Guiding Overseas Linked with Development) scheme which sees members working in partnership with other guide associations around the world.

Since then she has been a member of the GOLD Aruba 2017 team as well as GOLD Maldives 2018.

Pip Stewart, adventurer, journalist and presenter, was in attendance to give the recipients of the Queen's Guide Awards an inspirational talk.

She said: "I am absolutely delighted to be asked to help celebrate with all those who have achieved the Queen's Guide Award. The hard work, determination and commitment that these young people have displayed is unbelievably inspiring. I believe everyone can teach you something I can't wait to meet the individuals behind the success."

And Julie Bell, Deputy Chief Guide, commented: "It's a privilege to present all these incredible young women with their Queen's Guide Awards. Hearing about the range of challenges each of them took on and the effort they've put in is truly inspiring. They should be very proud of their achievements and I'm sure they'll all go on to have many more adventures in Girlguiding and beyond."

Family fun run raises grand total for charity

OFFICIALS of the Ormskirk branch of the Cysitc Fibrosis Trust have thanked everyone who took part in a fun run which raised £1,129 for the charity and saw an increase in the number of participants on last year's initial event.

The second 3km family-friendly run at Edge Hill University, which is set to become an annual event, was started by Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Noel Delaney, who also presented finishers with a medal and goody bag.

Branch chair of the charity, Margaret Ellams, said that all of the money raised will be put towards research into finding a cure for cystic fibrosis, a life-limiting condition which attacks the lungs and the digestive system.

She said: "Sincere thanks are due to all runners, volunteers, helpers and Edge Hill University for their support.

"The fun run is now fixed in the Ormskirk calendar and plans are already taking shape for October 2019's event."

And Margaret added that she is also looking for local businesses that would be able to provide some sponsorship for next year's event. If you can help, you can contact Margaret by email at mfellams@hotmail.com.

Norwich and Milan have more in common than you might think!

AS you read this I should just about be back home after my latest exploits on the Norfolk and Suffolk Broads in my cruiser, Manxman.

For many years my final trip of the year was in mid-November (to include my birthday) but back in 2013 my late brother George was due in hospital then, so we decided to make the 'birthday trip' at the end of October instead. Now I still do, as a kind of memorial cruise to honour George, and to be honest, hopefully for the weather to be a little more kind.

Anyway I don't intend to regale you once again about the wonders of Norfolk or what tribulations I have had to face (though I just might next week). No, I want to turn my attention to others who like to be afloat on the inland waterways - in particular Timothy West and Prunella Scales.

I've followed them on their extensive cruises around the canals of Great Britain with great interest and pleasure. But I thought they had rather lost the plot in the last series, and again in the series just started on Channel 4 on Sunday evening. Instead of piloting themselves around the canals of this country, they have instead begun to take to the waterways of the world, largely as holidaymakers with others doing the actual boating.

Having just watched their most recent one though, I must admit to liking it better. I'm finding their revamped Great Canal Journeys much more palatable. Their delight in what they see is palpable, and while, like any other tourist show they obviously have access to people and places that us lesser mortals would not, they obviously charm all those they meet.

Back to business though. In the last programme I watched they were journeying down what is billed as 'Europe's oldest working canal', which ventures into the heart of Milan.

Prunella and Timothy commented on the new flats and shops and bars that now line the route, where bustling warehouses and factories once stood with the canal being their gateway to the world. And the scene looked almost an exact replica of the River Wensum as it passes through the city of Norwich, it really does.

Except for one enormous difference. Our hosts commented on the almost non-existence of any boat traffic apart from their own. We were shown a canoe and a couple of rowing skiffs and otherwise just a stretch of empty water.

What a howling shame! In Norwich there is a plethora of pleasure craft (including the canoes and rowing boats) and truly I wonder why in the world the Italians don't make more leisure use of the wonderful waterway they possess.

Mind you, there was one other feature of Milan that echoed that in Norwich. Fine new leisure building where once there was commerce - bars, shops, hotels. But though the canal (in Milan) or the river at Wensum in Norwich passed within yards of folk obviously enjoying the facilities, there appeared top be few, if any, public moorings available so people on a boat could join them.

In Norwich I reckon this is a deliberate ploy to ensure that anyone on the river who wishes actually to visit their fine city has, perforce, to continue on to the (council-run) Yacht Station and pay really quite high mooring fees.

Perhaps that is what deters 'boatists' from visiting Milan too - though I doubt it. There is simply an almost total lack of pleasure craft using the canal at all. Very odd.

I am old enough to remember when quite large, seagoing trading vessels regularly sailed up the River Yare from Great Yarmouth to the Wensum in Norwich to the famous Colman's mustard factory.

Now they did provide something for cruiser skippers to think about if you met one on your holiday - get too close and the suction created could stick you to their seemingly enormous sides!

That might have made excellent TV though.

Keep an eye out for hedgehogs in the run-up to Bonfire Night

AN international wildlife charity is urging members of the public to be extra careful to help keep hedgehogs safe in the run-up to Bonfire Night..

Born Free's Tarnya Knight revealed that at the end of October, the prickly animals start looking for a place to hibernate and a pile of dry leaves in the garden or an unlit bonfire are attractive places for a sleepy hedgehog looking for somewhere to build its nest.

She said:"Hedgehogs can die or suffer awful injuries through contact with bonfires, so we're asking people to take some simple precautions to avoid causing them any harm."

Her tips for a hedgehog-friendly Bonfire Night are:

- Build your bonfire on the day it will be lit, putting the pile of material next to the bonfire site and rebuilding before lighting it if necessary.
- Choose clear ground, never on top of a pile of leaves.
- If you are unable to build the fire on the day of lighting, use a broom handle to check the bonfire by gently lifting section by section and using a torch to look and listen for hedgehogs.
- If you do find a hedgehog in your unlit bonfire, place it in a box with some leaves or shredded paper, with some water and meaty cat or dog food, and place it in a shed until the fireworks have finished and the bonfire dampened down.

Primary pupils enjoy a fishy learning experience

YOUNGSTERS from a West Lancs school have been given an insight into how one of the country's most popular dishes ends up on our plates.

Year 6 pupils from Burscough Village Primary were invited along to Fylde Fish and Chips on the Burscough Retail Park as part of its celebration of Seafood Week.

During their visit they learned about the journey fish take from the sea to chippies and restaurants. And as well as the sustainability of stocks and how the company uses fish from responsible sources, the children had the opportunity to take part in an interactive workshop where they were shown how to make fish cakes.

Veronica Bennett, the school's Business Support Officer, said: "It was a "fabulous experience.

The youngsters get 'hands-on' experience making fish cakes.

The children found the visit very interesting and were very grateful for the opportunity to try food items that they hadn't tried before."

And Jodie Zeniou, owner of Fylde Fish and Chips, commented that the children were very well behaved with excellent manners and showed an ability to work in groups as well as support each other. "They are a credit to the school and their parents and we look forward to welcoming them and their families to Fylde Fish and Chips."

Schools nominated for annual awards

TWO West Lancs schools have been shortlisted for an Educate Award in the seventh year of the annual competition.

Bickerstaffe CE School is in the running for the Community Partnership Award, while Pontville Independent School in Aughton has been nominated for the Communication Award.

Run in partnership with Copyrite Systems and Ricoh, the awards recognise the work of schools and colleges which are delivering outstanding education and helping students achieve their full potential.

Since launching in Liverpool in 2012, they have grown rapidly and now feature schools and colleges right across the Liverpool City Region, Cheshire, Lancashire and Greater Manchester.

In total there are 21 award categories including Teacher of the Year, Career Aspiration, School Support Star of the Year and Outstanding Commitment to Sport.

Commenting on the shortlist, Kim O'Brien, founder of the Educate Awards, said: "We are delighted to finally reveal the shortlist ahead of the awards ceremony in November. This year's list includes schools and colleges from all across the region.

"The awards recognise the arts, careers, sport, literacy, STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) and so much more.

"We believe it's so important to celebrate all aspects of school life and champion the teachers and school support stars who bring learning to life."

The Ormskirk North and South squads who took part in tournament in the Algarve.

Euro triumph's a 'stroll' for veteran footballers!

Two teams from the town - Ormskirk North and Ormskirk South - joined with 30 other teams drawn from Holland, Germany, Portugal and the rest of the UK, in the over-60s section of the tournament.

And Ormskirk South were crowned champions in the age group, beating Scottish side, Hearts of Midlothian 1-0 in the final.

Manager and captain of the team, Graham Lucy, said: "Barry Jones hit a blistering shot that the goalkeeper found too hot to handle to score the decisive goal." Graham also singled out teammate, Gary Forshaw, for "defending brilliantly" throughout the tournament

The victory was a case of going one better for Ormskirk South after missing out in the over-50s section of the tournament last year when they were beaten in the final on a penalty shoot-out.

Meanwhile new players are always welcome at the walking football group which meets at Edge Hill University sports centre every Tuesday and Friday from 1 to 2pm. Although primarily aimed at over-50s, players of any age can join.

Drink-driver crashed through works barriers

By our Court Reporter

A WOMAN from Banks described as 'normally a law-abiding citizen' was caught drink-driving when she drove through road work barriers and crashed into a fence.

When Kay Walby, of Abington Drive, appeared at Sefton Magistrates Court she told magistrates that she didn't want a solicitor to represent her because what she had done was wrong and she deserved whatever punishment she got.

The 30-year-old was driving her Mini Cooper on Argyle Road, Southport at 8.45pm on September 21 when the accident occurred.

Daryl Pollard, prosecuting, said: "A member of the public witnessed the incident. The defendant drove through work barriers before colliding with a metal fence. Fortunately no one was injured.

"The member of the public spoke to the defendant and took the keys out of the ignition."

Following breath tests at the police station she was found to have been driving with 104 micrograms of alcohol in 100ml of breath, the legal limit being 35mcg/100ml.

Probation worker Jackie Dawber said that Walby, who had no previous convictions, had bought some cans of beer to drink at home after work. But after receiving some bad news and feeling "quite stressed" from her job, she decided to drink the cans on Southport Pier instead. While on the way home she went to buy more cans when she crashed into the works barriers.

Her subsequent arrest was a wake-up call, Ms Dawber said, and she had not realised she was using alcohol as a coping mechanism. "She is normally a law-abiding citizen and has never even had a speeding ticket. She is mortified by what she has done and is very apologetic."

Walby, who works in a care home, wept during the hearing and when asked to speak, said: "I have got no excuse, what I have done is wrong. I could have killed someone. I chose not to be represented because I deserve everything I am going to get."

The magistrates sentenced her to 100 hours of unpaid work,ordered her to pay £170 in costs and victim surcharge and banned her from driving for two years.

She can reduce the ban by six months if she completes a drink-drive awareness course.

Deputy Mayor to attend Civic fundraiser for British Legion

THE Deputy Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Gaynar Owen, will attend a talk entitled 'The Man who Shod War Horses' on Friday, November 2 at The Civic in Southport Road, Ormskirk, starting at 7.15pm.

This will be followed by a hot-pot supper and 'Sing As We Go' featuring the Pleasure Folk amateur musical society.

Proceeds from the event will be donated to the Royal British Legion.

BKM.MANNESMANN
Waterproofing systems

Damp Problems? Call us...

Rising and penetrative damp can affect a building's structure, damaging walls and creating fungal growth which will ultimately devalue a property and potentially damage your health.

BKM Mannesmann uses a highly effective, advanced polymer technology from Germany. Traditional silicone products and tanking processes are less effective and merely trap moisture in the walls.

Our Injection process turns the whole wall into a hydrophobic barrier but allows the masonry to dry out effectively.

Typical installation:

- Inside or outside injection
- Clean, no odour
- Less mess – only damaged plaster is replaced
- Work usually completed in 1 to 2 days.

Our team have extensive training by our qualified Technicians around the world. We pride ourselves on leaving a house cleaner than when we started!

Chance for borough's 70-year-olds to share in Royal celebrations

PRINCE Charles celebrates a landmark birthday this year and the Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Noel Delaney, is hosting a special celebration to mark the occasion.

The prince turns 70 on Wednesday, November 14 and Cllr. Delaney is inviting West Lancashire residents who are also 70 in 2018 to an afternoon tea in the Mayor's Room at the council offices in Derby Street on the day.

However, places are strictly limited for this special event and will be awarded on a first come-first served basis.

Any resident of the borough who is 70 this year or who has a relative who is, and who would like to attend, is advised to contact Jill Ryan at the council on 01695 585017 or by email at jill.ryan@westlancs.gov.uk, as soon as possible.

Cllr. Delaney said: "Don't delay - contact us now or you may miss out on this chance to celebrate Prince Charles' 70th birthday!"

Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Noel Delaney.

New 26-30 railcard scheme on track

WEST Lancs train users aged between 26 and 30 who travel during 'leisure hours' will soon be able to apply for the National Rail 26-30 Railcard.

On track to be rolled out before the end of 2018, it will cost £30 a year and entitle holders to save a third off most train fares. Industry bodies predict it will save cardholders an average of £125 a year

However, there will be no discounts on season tickets and a minimum fare of £12 for all journeys between 4.30am and 10am, excluding weekends and public holidays. The card, which must be downloaded onto a smartphone, is aimed at leisure travellers rather than commuters.

County's youth 'make their mark'

YOUNG people in Lancashire have taken the opportunity to vote on the issues that matter most to them by taking part in the Make Your Mark campaign .

Supported by local authorities, schools, Parliament, The British Youth Council and the Department for Digital, Culture, Media & Sport, the ballot gives young people across the country a say on what is to be debated on the green benches of the House of Commons by Members of the UK Youth Parliament.

This year's campaign has seen more than 1.1 million young people take part, including more than 27,000 in Lancashire and more than 230,000 in the North West.

Each issue will be discussed within the chamber on Friday, November 9 during the UK Youth Parliament's eighth sitting in the House of Commons, chaired by Speaker, John Bercow MP.

The five issues that have been prioritised are: putting an end to knife crime; improving mental health services; equal pay for equal work; tackling homelessness; and giving 16 and 17-year-olds the right to vote in all elections/referendums.

And the top three issues will be mental health, ending knife crime, and equal pay and equal work.

County Councillor Susie Charles, Lancashire's cabinet member for children, young people and schools, said: "Once again the ballot achieved a really high level of voting. Young people both in Lancashire and across the country appreciated the opportunity to express their opinions on the issues that they really care about.

"Hopefully they enjoyed debating the issues. This was a tremendous experience and opportunity for them to have their say. The young people have played a part in real democracy."

Home's new feature helps residents take a walk down Memory Lane

A CARE home in West Lancashire has created a new feature in its gardens to help residents reminisce and talk about the past.

The Hillcroft Care Home in Long Lane, Aughton previously created sensory garden 'pods' for residents.

These recreate familiar scenes - such as a woodland, a beach and a summer garden - which are used to stimulate residents' memories of being in similar settings.

Now the home has added to this with a 'Trip Down Memory Lane' feature which consists of a pathway with pictures of old Ormskirk on it, also designed to spark memories and start conversations.

Kate Mitchell, activities co-ordinator at the home, said: "We have found that the Memory Lane is a great reminiscing tool and conversation piece between residents and family and friends."

And there is also a new wooden Punch and Judy house. Kate said that in the summer they will have traditional outdoor Punch and Judy shows to help bring back memories from the seaside and childhood.

87-year-old Eric Lupton enjoys a walk down Hillcroft's Memory Lane.

The T.Rextasy show is coming to Southport

Relive music of glam rock era

T.REXTASY, presented by Sweeney Entertainments, return to venues across the UK in 2018 transporting audiences back to relive the good old days of the 1970's and they will be at the Atkinson on Saturday, November 24 at 8pm.

Marc Bolan, with his band T.Rex, was one of the most flamboyant and charismatic stars of the original glam rock era.

With Bolan's special ingredient of Rock-a-Boogie songs, the band had a string of huge hits throughout the 1970s including Love to Boogie, Telegram Sam, Jeepster and 20th Century Boy.

Accepted as the world's only official live tribute band dedicated to Marc Bolan & T.Rex, and the only band endorsed and approved by Marc Bolan's family, estate, original ex-members of T.Rex, and Bolan's catalogue management, T.Rextasy have been described by many as "beyond the boundaries of tribute".

They have been performing all over the world for more than 25 years, a career that ironically out-lives Marc's very own T.Rex.

The skilled musicianship of Danielz (vocals and lead guitar), Neil Cross (rhythm guitars, backing vocals), Rob Butterfield (bass guitar, backing vocals) and John Skelton (drums) lets the timeless music and legacy of Marc Bolan and T.Rex live on, performing everything from 20th Century Boy to Children of the Revolution as well as Telegraph Sam to Hot Love with superb authenticity.

Sweeney Entertainments is co-founded by Julie and Peter Sweeney, and Julie said: "T.Rextasy return to venues across in 2018 with another powerhouse evening of rock 'n' roll. This concert show boasts two hours of amazing completely live glam rock."

Gifted pianist appearing at village hall's auditorium

PARBOLD Douglas Music is to present Federico Colli, internationally recognised for his vibrant interpretations and brilliant technique, performing in the auditorium in the Village Hall WN8 7DN on Saturday, November 10 at 7.45 p.m.

Federico Colli is an artist who exudes charisma by the barrelful. His strong musical personality reaches out to every audience the moment he walks out to the piano. Federico is to perform a selection of Domenico Scarlatti's Sonatas, aiming to provide an outstanding evening in Parbold, as the clarity of Colli's touch is impressive as he speeds through Scarlatti's hurtling rhythms, startling modulation and dissonant crunches. His playing ignites conflicting reactions. On the one hand, you can't but marvel at the sheer quality of his playing – his trills the epitome of crispness, his repeated notes sounding absurdly easy, while his command of dynamic extremes is second to none. It's impossible not to be impressed by his flair.

Born in Brescia in 1988, Federico studied at the Milan Conservatory, the Imola International Piano Academy and the Salzburg Mozarteum. In 2011 he received a 'Grosso d'Argento' from the mayor of Brescia in recognition of his artistic achievements, and in 2014 he was selected by International Piano magazine as one of the "30 pianists under 30 who are likely to dominate the world stage in years to come."

Federico first came to prominence after winning the Salzburg Mozart Competition in 2011 and the Leeds International Piano Competition in 2012. Since then, he has been performing with orchestras from all over the world.

In the UK alone, he has performed with the Philharmonia Orchestra, BBC Symphony, Royal Scottish National Orchestra, Royal Liverpool Philharmonic and the Hallé at the Barbican, Southbank Centre.

Federico Colli

The 18/19 seasons sees Federico making debuts at Wigmore Hall and Lucerne Piano Festival after having earlier performed at Royal Albert Hall and at the Ravinia Festival. Federico released his first album in May 2018. The second album, with works by Bach and Bach-Busoni, will follow in 2019.

Concert tickets are £18.50 for adults and £5 for young persons and students. To book or order tickets please go online to www.parbold-douglasmusic.org, E-mail: tickets@parbolddouglasmusic.org or telephone: 01257 498452 (booking answerphone). A limited number of stand-by tickets are always available at the Box Office on the evening of the concert.

Award winning playwright's new play taking centre stage at Arts Centre

AWARD winning playwright and songwriter Lizzie Nunnery's new play will be taking centre stage at Edge Hill University's Arts Centre next month.

Fresh from the success of acclaimed play Narvik winning last year's Best New Play Award at the UK Theatre Awards, To Have to Shoot Irishmen, is inspired by the story of Irish writer and activist Francis Sheehy-Skeffington, who was killed by the British military during the Easter Rising in Dublin in 1916.

While his rebel friends were out with guns seizing public buildings and declaring a free Ireland, Skeffington was walking the streets calling for peace and preventing looting. While crossing a bridge Frank was pulled from the crowd, arrested without charge, held for two days then executed under orders from British soldier, Captain John Bowen Colthurst.

Weaving together drama and song, the new play conjures the shattering impact of those events on his wife and feminist activist Hanna, on William the teenage soldier who guarded Frank, and on Vane, the rebellious commander who bears the news of Frank's death to Hanna.

To Have to Shoot Irishmen is produced by Almanac Arts, Lizzie Nunnery's female-led theatre company in association with Liverpool Irish Festival.

A scene from Narvik

Writer Lizzie Nunnery is an award-winning playwright and celebrated singer-songwriter. Her first play Intemperance was shortlisted for the Meyer-Whitworth Award and received five stars in the Guardian. In 2016 she premiered Narvik at the Liverpool Playhouse, which went on to tour to great acclaim. It was shortlisted for the international Susan Smith Blackburn Prize, and won Best New Play at the UK Theatre Awards 2017. Lizzie has also written extensively for BBC radio.

To Have to Shoot Irishmen will be performed at The Arts Centre on Tuesday, November 6 at 7.30pm. Ring the Box Office on 01695 584 480.

The C4 Picasso

I admit, I am a bit slower than I was!

I DON'T mind saying it. I'm a bit slower than I used to be.

Not in the sense that I'm no longer any good at the brainteasers Channel 4 chucks at me during the commercial breaks on Countdown or that I no longer know how many were going to St Ives – but that it takes longer to cover ground, no matter what the car. Regardless of whether I'm in a Suzuki Celerio or the new McLaren Speedtail, the age of 50mph average speed restrictions that go on for ten miles at a time have seen to that.

Not that it matters one jot, because speed isn't the luxury it used to be. Do the one percent jet across the globe in three hours on Concorde? Nope, because these days they can do it overnight in an A380 first class cabin that's better equipped than most hotel suites. The sleeper trains to Cornwall and the Scottish Highlands have been kitted out with more upmarket furnishings because the operators know plenty of folk are happy to fork out for the hotel-on-rails experience. Making the journey more enjoyable, rather than quicker, is where the smart money is these days.

Which is probably why I emerged from Citroen's latest C4 Picasso with a content smile the other day. It might be a distant relative of the Peugeot 5008 that I tried a few months ago, but unlike that car it doesn't pretend to be a chunky off-roader – this unashamedly sets out its stall as a people carrier, and feels all the better for it.

Nope it's not the most razor-edge family bus through the corners but it handles capably enough, with the reward instead being a soft, supple ride. Visibility is excellent – no turgid, safety-paranoid A-pillars here – and the full-length panoramic glass roof makes it feel like something like out of Grand Designs inside. You can slide the sun visor mountings back into the headlining too, to give you even more light through that massive windscreen.

Kevin McCloud would approve of how avant-garde and well appointed it is inside too – I love the dashboard plastics and the way all the dials have been moved into a single digital slab on the centre of the dashboard, including a strip-style speedometer reminiscent of what your granddad had in his Rover P6. The seats heat up and give you massages too – and the front passenger one comes with a leg rest not entirely like something you'd get on a living room recliner.

I even like the way it looks – those headlights make it seem like it's squinting at you with faint disapproval, as if to say you're an idiot for buying an SUV instead. In fact, the only real chink in its armour is that something this massive really ought to have seven seats – for that you'd need its Grand Picasso sibling, which doesn't look as good. So there you go – I'm championing an MPV because I think it's a bit of a looker.

Maybe I am a bit slower than I used to be, after all...

Skem and Widnes players in action

Much-changed Skem side beaten in friendly match

Skelmersdale United 2
Widnes 3

SKELMERSDALE were without a competitive fixture last weekend so played a friendly match against Widnes.

The home side got off to a flying start when Dane McCormick struck after only one minute.

The lead was short lived, as Widnes equalised on eight minutes and the score stayed at 1-1 until half time.

Skem started the second half strongly and retook the lead through Declan Daniels.

Widnes once again equalised and went on to get a winner in the 83rd minute to come away with the victory.

Free-scoring Linnets hit late winner to shock promotion challengers

Report by Neil Leatherbarrow

Runcorn Town 2
Burscough 3

The hosts had won all their previous six home games this season and would have gone second in the league with a win.

The hotshot Linnets have now scored 11 goals in their last three games and actually have a better away record than home record.

Dave Sutton's team went on the attack from the off and inside two minutes they had the lead, Prince Ekpolo pushing forward and latching onto the ball around 25 yards from goal and unleashing a low shot that beat home goalkeeper Adam Reid.

Burscough had caught the hosts out and were determined to maximise their advantage and less than three minutes later it was 2-0, Adam Owen cutting in from the wing and firing low under keeper Reid.

It was dream start for Burscough and but for a good save by Reid, Chad Whyte would have made it 3-0.

Runcorn are a good team and they started to drag themselves into the game but they were not making many inroads into the Linnets defence.

Burscough still posed a serious threat and Matty Ward was kept out by keeper Reid on the half-hour, then Terry Cummings put a lob inches wide of the target.

The hosts asserted more after that and Povey saved from a free-kick by former Marine player Jamie Menagh.

On 35 minutes Runcorn pulled a goal back. A good passing build-up put the ball wide to Menagh, who then cleverly sent it behind the Burscough backline and Shaun Weaver poked the ball home.

Burscough started the second-half well and Ward was unlucky when his shot rattled the home crossbar.

Paul McManus brought a good save out of Povey when he looked clean in on goal but then a moment of controversy, when Runcorn equalised in the 62nd minute.

Right-Back Ekpolo was seeing the ball out on his goal-line for a goal-kick, but Joe Heath slid in and managed to convert a shot across the face of goal. Burscough goalkeeper Povey received a yellow card for his protests and could be said to have been lucky it wasn't a red. He was adamant that the ball had gone out of play.

Burscough just rolled up their socks and went more onto the offensive. But still chances were few at both ends.

Runcorn were kept to shots from distance, one effort from John Shaw being thwarted by a brave block by Linnets defender Luke Gibson.

Five minutes from the end Burscough won it. Former Richmond player Jordan Lorde had come on as sub at half-time and he played a superbly executed one two with Chad Whyte on the 18 yard line before running on to score.

Runcorn now ploughed forward and to their credit the Burscough defence gave them very little at all held on and deserved their win.

Burscough are making something of a marker in the league now as this is the second time in two away games that they have prevailed over supposedly stronger opposition.

It will mark them out as one of the danger teams in the Premier Division, but it shows just what they are capable of and will give them lots of confidence to do better.

Skem to return to league action as they face crucial month

SUPPORTERS will be spoiled for choice on Saturday when both Burscough and Skelmersdale play crucial matches.

The Linnets have the second leg of a double headed derby meeting with Charnock Richard at Victoria Park, while Skelmersdale start a month that could be crucial to the eventual outcome of their season with the visit of Ramsbottom United. Both games kick off at 3pm.

Skelmersdale United supporters will be fairly desperate for their football fix, as they have gone two weeks without a competitive game, although they have had a couple of friendly matches.

Saturday saw a game against a Widnes XI played at the JMO Sports Centre in Skelmersdale, despite taking the lead very early on via Dane McCormick they eventually lost 3-2, but in their defence it must be said that manager Dave Powell did field a large number of players on trial. Declan Daniels struck the second Skem goal.

Skelmersdale will have played a second friendly last night Tuesday, October 30), away to North-West Counties side Abbey Hey.

November could be such a crucial month for Skelmersdale because it offers the opportunity to play clubs that are mid or lower table, in fact their two scheduled home games are probably on paper their most difficult.

Ramsbottom have had a good run this season and sit just outside the play-off places, but maybe significantly they have recently lost manager Mark Fell to Lancaster City, plus one or two players have moved on too, so they could be vulnerable.

Next Tuesday (November 6), Skelmersdale make a second trip to Droylsden, the first trip saw the game abandoned because of floodlight failure. The Bloods are only two points ahead of Skem in the league table, so it definitely represents an opportunity for Skem.

Burscough have really found their shooting boots in recent weeks and their last three games have generated 11 goals, largely thanks to Chad Whyte.

Burscough will have played at Charnock Richard last night (Tuesday) and face them again on Saturday.

When the two sides met last season the games were very closely fought, Charnock won their home game, but at Victoria Park they only denied Burscough victory with a last gasp equaliser in a thrilling encounter.

Burscough don't have a mid-week game next week.
